

Francis Audley's Sudden Death.

Francis Audley of 37 Hanrahan Avenue died suddenly, Monday afternoon, in New York, at his place of business. He left home in the morning, to all appearances in the best of health. Even just before his death, at about 5 p. m. he was chatting over the telephone with one of his family. Two weeks ago, he suffered a hemorrhage of the nostrils. It was thought that death was caused by a blood-clot upon the brain.

He had lived in Stamford for about nine years. He went daily to his business in New York, where he was a dealer in police supplies.

He is survived by his widow, Catherine; three sons, Francis, Robert and Bertram, and a daughter. Mrs. Thomas Audley, married to a man of her maiden surname.

The funeral service will be held Saturday, at 9.30 a. m., in St. John's Catholic Church. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery, New York.

Mr. Audley was president of the Audley Holster Company of New York. He had patented a holster used by the New York police department and had other patents. He was a native of Ireland having come to this country when he was six months old.
