THE SOLDIER— AND HIS DOGS

WHEN he's not clerking in No. 3 Hospital Company of the Army's Southern Command, at Collins Barracks, Cork, Sergeant J. H. Audley's time is devoted to his dogs. Since 1949 he has owned three Kennel Club champions, one of which, "Zuazang," he bred himself.

Chess is this English-born Irish Army sergeant's number two interest. Since he settled at Passage West, Co. Cork, he has played for Ireland in international correspondence chess Olympics. In England he was a schoolboy swimming champion, and has several life-saving medals. He also has medals for dancing.
